VRS Agreement with ALPHASENSE

VRS (Valuation & Research Specialists) have entered into a redistribution partnership with AlphaSense via FactSet Research Systems. This partnership involves redistributing real time broker and related research to AlphaSense utilizing FactSet's entitlement profiles and readership reporting. There are a couple of benefits for VRS emanating from the above partnership such as the inclusion of new distribution channels and the potential higher demand for VRS Research on behalf of professional as well as institutional investors. AlphaSense will have access to real time and historical research of VRS for internal use and for redistribution via the AlphaSense platform in compliance with the entitlements and reporting processes currently in place with FactSet.

AlphaSense is a privately held technology company headquartered in New York, USA. It was founded in 2008 with institutional and private venture funding. AlphaSense launched an intelligent search engine in 2010 that offers a new standard for information discovery. Using a blend of artificial intelligence (AI), plus advanced linguistic search and natural language processing algorithms, AlphaSense enables research professionals to search, navigate, set alerts and analyze filings, research, news and other disclosures for critical data points that others are missing — with unprecedented speed and accuracy.
